1. The numbering of claims is not in accordance with 37 CFR 1.126 which requires the original numbering of the claims to be preserved throughout the prosecution. When claims are canceled, the remaining claims must not be renumbered. When new claims are presented, they must be numbered consecutively beginning with the number next following the highest numbered claims previously presented (whether entered or not).

Misnumbered claim 18 been renumbered 24.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 10-17 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Parker (5894686) in view of either Norment (5345700) or Feiner (6278378).

Parker shows a shoe comprising a loudspeaker (54), lights (2 and 3) with an inertia switch (column 5 lines 13-39), and a controller (50) comprising a plurality of switches (discussed in column 6 lines 39-47) which may be separate switches to operate different sounds substantially as claimed except for providing indicia over the switches. Either Norment or Feiner teaches providing indicia (25, 28, and 29 and discussed in column 5 line 65-column 6 line 12 or element 140 shown in figures 1 and 2) over a switch. It would have been obvious to provide indicia as taught by either Norment or Feiner over the switches in the shoe of Parker to allow the user to easily locate the switch desired and to provide an aesthetically pleasing switch.

In reference to claims 12, 14-17, and 24, Parker suggests different talking voices associated with different switches (column 6 lines 39-46). Feiner or Norment teach associating the indicia with the sound/light pattern produced. The exact indicia/sound/word is considered a choice of design and it would have been obvious to use shapes with shape words, numbers with number words, or any other known printed indicia and sound association in the shoe of Parker to allow the shoe to be used for teaching, amusement, safety, training, etc..

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 4/6/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Parker clearly discloses a shoe with a plurality of discrete switches that are associated with discrete different sounds. It is extremely well known and common for indicia to be provided on switches to notify a user what the switch activates or controls. Feiner and Norment have been applied as a teaching of this well known and common, conventional use of indicia on switches. Both Feiner and Norment clearly teach that the indicia used is associated with the function/sound/element which the switch controls. Parker clearly suggests that the system has switches which produce different sounds (column 6 lines 39-47), the exact sounds produced are considered to be a choice of design, selected by the manufacture and the intended use, wearer, activities, amusement, instructional intentions, etc..

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
